

Securities and Exchange Act B.E. 2535

Section 92. A securities company may establish a branch office only when an approval has been given by the Office.

The application for and the granting of such approval shall be in accordance with the rules, conditions and procedures as specified by the SEC.

The establishment of a branch office of a financial institution established in accordance with other laws shall comply with such governing laws.
